

The impact of Trump's tariffs

by
K S Sarkaria

On 31st July 45², Gulshan asked me what would be the impact of Trump's tariffs : at which I told him I found economics quite boring and was really bad at such predictions, but then, out popped, out of nowhere, and for the very first time, this thought: on which side of Ravana's effigy are there more of his nine secondary heads? My young friend had not thought of this either, even though he had played the lead rôle in his village Ramlila for many years, so a few hours later I duly pichaied the above simple question:-

Above AI Overview is silly. All photos of effigy that popped up had 9 smaller heads, more often 5-4 in favour of its right side, the rest 4-5. Besides it is not quite true that $5 + 1 + 5 = 10$ . Yet the bot insists “there is no concept of having more heads on one side” and as if to buttress this adds in the overview an image, but if you magnify a bit and count carefully, you’ll see for the very first time a nine headed ravana (unless the tenth is on its back side, also as if to compensate it has some extra pairs of arms). However imho the LLM is not to blame here, this is just GIGO: for non-commercial queries specifically desi there is very little coherent on the web to begin with.